The Duchess of Cornwall visits her Battalion

Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall, spent a morning with 4Bn The Rifles last month.

She first presented operational awards and Joint Commanders Commendations to several members of the Battalion, including to 2Lt Charlie Kilner, (above right), and a Long Service and Good Conduct medal to Cpl Lee Miller (centre right).

The Duchess then donned a uniform jacket and travelled to Carter Barracks where, from the top of a Bulldog Armoured Vehicle, she watched a demonstration of a mechanized platoon attack performed by Javelin Platoon, afterwards chatting with the soldiers on the Training Area.

Later on, the Duchess visited The Beeches in Bulford, where she had the opportunity to meet and chat informally with families.

Do you live INSIDE the wire ?

No more carrying your shopping home from the VCP
... and no more weary journeys to your accommodation after a heavy night out !

For a trial period only :

Certain drivers and taxis with security clearance can now deliver you to your door if you live inside the wire in Tidworth, Bulford or Netheravon camps.

This relaxation of the security regulations is for a trial period of time only and authorisation for it may be withdrawn at any time if it is abused.

Please note :

- This authorisation is given to certain drivers only
- If this trial proves to be a success, other drivers will be considered for vetting, but only from Tidworth Taxi firms.
- Look for the drivers' cards in the pubs and hubs within the Garrison
- Drivers with valid passes are the only ones that will be allowed access to camp !

"Abuse it and lose it !" said the GSM, WO1 Pete Borthwick.

The Rifles Sound Retreat

"Swift and Bold" 4Bn The Rifles is justly proud of its heritage

Drums have been used for communication from earliest times and the ceremony of 'Beating Retreat' dates from the 16th century, when it was known as 'Watch Setting' or 'Retreat' at the end of the day. The use of the Bugle to 'Sound Retreat' dates from the creation of the Light Infantry Regiments which used the Bugle rather than the drum to relay commands in the field. The sound of the bugle from the ramparts at sunset served to warn those outside that the gates of the town or fortress would soon be closed, after which the sentries would challenge anybody who approached.

4 Bn The Rifles held a Sounding Retreat and families day last month, welcoming representatives from the local community as a 'thank you' for the reception and support they received upon their return from Iraq last November.

4 RIFLES is proud of its relations with the local community and is keen to develop them further as, for the first time, the Battalion will be based in one location permanently, with children going to the local schools and families using local facilities.

19 Tank Transporter Squadron Memorial

19 Tank Transporter Squadron RLC has erected a memorial stone beside their Squadron Headquarters in Bulford 'in memory of those who have fallen on duty'.

A short Dedication Service was attended by the family of Pte Kevin Thompson who died in May 2007 during Op TELIC 9 and whose name is on the memorial stone. Also present were Brig ASJ Fay, Commander 101 Brigade, Lt Col N Lewis, 27 Regt RLC, and Maj S Kara, Squadron OC. The Act of Remembrance was read by LCpl Laughlan.

The stone was donated by Shepton Mallet quarry and money was raised within the Squadron itself for the engraved black granite plaques set into it.

A County says 'Thank you'

Soldiers from 1 Mech Brigade marched through Trowbridge town centre on 27th June. Around 400 troops representing all units from the Brigade took part, marching to music from The Band of the Royal Corps of signals; the salute was taken by The Lord Lieutenant, John Bush OBE and John Knight, the Mayor of Trowbridge.

1 Mech Brigade, together with soldiers from the Kings Royal Hussars from 12 Mech Brigade, returned from a tour of duty in Iraq in December 2007, while Bulford-based 12 Mech Brigade returned from Afghanistan in October 2007. A number of soldiers from both brigades have recently been decorated for their actions in both Iraq and Afghanistan.

County Council Chairman, Brigadier Robert Hall, said: "Wiltshire has strong links with the Armed Forces and this parade has been organised to enable us to formally say thank you to them for their dedication and hard work in both Afghanistan and Iraq."

Wiltshire is home to a wide range of military bases and there are around 15,000 military personnel stationed in the county at any one time. The parade was organised by Wiltshire County Council with the support of West Wiltshire District Council, Trowbridge Town Council and the Royal British Legion.

Tidworth Military Cemetery

Tidworth Military Cemetery

Opened in 1904, just as Tidworth Camp was first being built, Tidworth Military Cemetery holds nearly 2000 graves of soldiers and some of their families too, dating from 1905 to the most recent, only a few months ago.

Around 1/3 of the graves are Commonwealth War Graves which, as overseas, are looked after by the Commonwealth War Graves Commission. These can be identified by the traditional shape of their headstones. The remaining 2/3 of the graves are looked after by the Ministry of Defence.

The administration of the graves is dealt with at Garrison Headquarters by Beverley Tarrant and Sarah Simpson who are pictured above, at the Tidworth Military Cemetery with MOD Caretaker, Mark Edmonds. Mark became the Caretaker 14 years ago, after serving 9 years with the Royal Artillery. His responsibilities are to tend the MOD graves, to cut the border hedges and to trim the 26 Yew trees; the grass is cut under a maintenance contract by Aspire Defence.

Many of the first people buried in the cemetery owe their presence to the existence of the military hospital in the Barracks. Many of the early graves belong to small babies, reflecting a time before the National Health Service when infant mortality was much much higher than it is today.

Most of the Commonwealth War Graves belong to New Zealanders who died here in the devastating influenza epidemic which swept Europe after the end of the First World War. The link between Salisbury Plain and New Zealand remains strong today; the High Commissioner always visits the cemetery when here to present the Kiwi Trophy after the annual Kiwi March & Shoot competition.

Among the graves at the Tidworth Cemetery dating from the time of the Second World War, there are several Polish graves and 3 Russian. The three Russians are said to have been brought to Tidworth from Alderney on the Channel Islands after the Liberation, only to die later in the military hospital. From time to time, on Motherland Day, the Russian Embassy sends a representative to lay flowers on the graves.

More recently, there are graves for those who died in operations in Cyprus, Northern Ireland, Bosnia, Iraq and, closer to home, during military exercises on the Plain or as a result of road accidents.

British Military Cemeteries the world over are places of peace and tranquility, fitting resting places for soldiers who have died in the service of their country.

Chris Evans takes to the Skies over Netheravon

Radio DJ and Presenter Chris Evans took the skies with The Tigers Parachute Display Team from the Princess of Wales's Royal Regiment last month, jumping out of the "Foxy Lady", a Cessna 208 Caravan, at 13,000 feet above Salisbury Plain.

A team of 9 from The Tigers Parachute Display Team trained Chris in Tandem Sky Diving before he was strapped to Team Leader Corporal Dave Clarke for the 35 second freefall.

Speaking before the jump, Chris Evans said, "I'm a control freak, so to relinquish it will be really tough, but I'm jumping with the best of the best, so I'm in good hands."

Watched by his wife, safe on the ground at the Joint Services Parachute Centre at Netheravon, Chris could be heard whooping and screaming as he came into land.

"That was amazing!", Chris said as he landed safely back on terra firma. "It felt like it was over in seconds. There's no time to be scared as you are plummeting to the ground. It was great, just amazing. I always say that the best story has a beginning, middle and end, but there wasn't time for any of that, it was just one big hit from the moment I sat in the door to when I landed. An awesome, awesome experience; can't wait to do it again."

Tidworth Scouts help out

1st Tidworth Scout Group did their bit for the local environment by taking part in this year's 'RAP' clean-up in the town.

The Rubbish Awareness Project is a joint effort between local town councils, the district council, local schools, Wiltshire Wildlife Trust, TNB Garrison, Aspire Defence, the Police, Tidworth Development Trust, Sarsen Housing and other local organisations, spearheaded by David Wildman, Chairman of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Exercise Soaring Phoenix

8 Armoured Engineer Squadron from 26 Engineer Regiment has been busy preparing to deploy as part of the King's Royal Hussars Battle Group to BATUS, Canada on Exercise MEDICINE MAN 4 in September 2008. The culmination of the Squadron's training was the 2-week Exercise SOARING PHOENIX on Salisbury Plain in late May/early June with 100 men and 40 vehicles.

Almost every driver and most commanders were new in post since the last armoured exercise, well before Op HERRICK 6. There was much to learn: leaguers; harbours; vehicle checks and maintenance days; tactical cross country driving by day and night. Even night convoy moves proved to be tricky, with some very dense fog catching out Spr Finney who failed to follow the vehicle in front of him!

For 1 (Armd) Tp it was their first opportunity to deploy tactically with TITAN and TROJAN. River crossings, python firings and minefield breaches were expected serials, but the new TROJAN breaching arm also allowed them to dig craters, breach obstacles and form the basis of a very large and comfortable crew shelter! Anti-tank ditches were attempted, but worked best at a fairly slow 30m/hr with a TROJAN and a MWT - roll on TERRIER in 2011 (which replaces CET). 2 (Mech) Tp were getting to grips with BULLDOG whilst conducting a wide variety of tasks, from water supply points to wire obstacles to minefields, and of course their favourite, the silent night hand-breach of a minefield. For much of the exercise 1 and 2 Tps mixed and matched their TITANs, TROJANs and field sections to form two close support tps, as they will in BATUS. 3 (Sp) Tp were busy as ever moving resources around, supporting A1 and A2 Echelons, and, of course, digging. In fact their exercise finished with a non-stop 36 hour digging task to dig in a (2,1) BG with all their support weapons, HQs and even the AS90s.

After 1 and 2 Tps defeated the last remaining enemy pockets with both a mounted and dismounted attack, the Squadron regrouped on a hardstanding close to camp and started to "de-gunge" the vehicles much as they will do in the Dustbowl at the end of Ex MEDMAN 4. A Squadron BBQ coincided with the results of the Cpl-Sgt promotion board, and that was it, ENDEX. Next stop BATUS and integration with the rest of the BG.
